

Current Research in Egyptology Editing Committee Call for Applications

The Current Research in Egyptology (CRE) Permanent Committee invites applications for the creation of a new CRE Editing Committee, which stems from a vote held at the last Annual General Meeting, in Basel. The Editing Committee will consult with the Organizing Committee (OC) on matters related to the publication of the annual conference proceedings, aiding and supporting the Organizing Committee in this task at the discretion of the OC. This position is offered on a volunteer basis; however, members of the Editing Committee who help in the publication of the annual conference proceedings will be listed in the publication and receive appropriate credit for their work. The starting date is subject to the availability of the applicants and the needs of the previous OC (Basel 2023), but will be no earlier than the end of January 2024.

Required Skills and Qualifications

We welcome applications from people who:

- Have experience editing, formatting, and/or proofreading academic papers in English (formally or informally);
- Have an academic degree (BA or higher) in Egyptology or related fields (ancient history, archaeology, etc.);
- Are available to work on short notice;
- Have proficiency in English;
- Are capable of working in (and with) an international team.

To apply, please submit the following documents to crepermanentcommittee@gmail.com:

- Letter of motivation (max. 1 page), describing why you would be a good fit for the position and highlighting specific areas in which you have relevant experience (such as formatting, proofreading, etc.);
- CV.

The deadline for applications is December 3, 2023. Selected candidates will be contacted by mid-December to join an info session regarding their responsibilities and expectations as members of the CRE Editing Committee. If you have any additional questions regarding this position, please do not hesitate to get in touch with the CRE Permanent Committee via e-mail.
